On July 13, 2021, the City Council of the District of Columbia passed emergency legislation to amend its debt collection law, § 28-3814. The amendments take effect when they are signed by D.C.'s mayor, which is expected any day. (The mayor has 10 days to sign.) The emergency measure will last 90 days from enactment. A "temporary" bill was also introduced that contains the same provisions. It has not passed the Council but is scheduled to be considered later and likely before the emergency measure would expire. The temporary measure would last 225 days from enactment if it were to become law. This webinar will cover the latest developments and key points regarding the emergency legislation.
