

RMAI Call for Presentations

The Receivables Management Association International (RMAI) announces its Call for Presentations for the 2023 Annual Conference held at the ARIA Casino & Resort in Las Vegas, NV, February 6-9, 2023! RMAI's Annual Conference is one of the most respected and well-attended events in the receivables management industry as it draws professionals from debt buying companies, collection agencies, law firms, brokers, creditors, and vendors. As always, this popular event will bring people together to address the latest issues facing the receivables management industry.

You are invited to submit a presentation proposal for a 50-minute educational session sharing your expertise and experience while addressing important issues, relevant industry information and best practices.

Submission Requirements

For the Annual Conference, RMAI seeks:

- An interactive and engaging program format
- Presentations that include audience participation and/or discussion
- Innovative and insightful presentations
- Educational programs that are not a sales pitch

Programming Design

RMAI designs Annual Conference programming to further the education of industry professionals and support the RMAI Receivables Management Certification Program. RMAI values presentations emphasizing an in-depth understanding of laws and regulations, the latest business practices and trends in the receivables management industry.

Selection Process

RMAI's Conference Committee will review all presentation proposals received on or before Monday, August 8, 2022. RMAI will notify selected presenters only by October 1, 2022.

RMAI bases presentation selection on a variety of considerations including but not limited to:

- Appropriateness of and interest in topic
- Level of content
- Comprehensiveness of objectives
- Expertise of presenter(s)
- RMAI membership & certification status

RMAI reserves the right to make recommendations for content revisions and speaker additions prior to selection. Participation as a presenter is by invitation only.

Benefits of Annual Conference Selection

- Pre- and post-event promotion to more than 3,000 employees of RMAI member companies, past attendees, and prospects
- Exclusive professional development opportunities
- Access to RMAI members, conference attendees, and exhibitors.
- Recognition as a subject matter expert

We look forward to reviewing your presentation proposal and great ideas!
