

The CFPB's Recent Statement on Data Security Signals New Compliance Concerns

Friday, August 26th – 9:00am PT/12:00pm ET

One (1) RMAI Education Credit

On August 11 the CFPB released a circular identifying lax data security protections as an unfair act or practice in violation of the Consumer Financial Protection Act, regardless of “other federal law.” RMAI consultants Don Maurice and Eric Rosenkoetter believe the circular broadcasts the Bureau’s enhanced focus on data security in examinations, CIDs and enforcement actions. This presentation will cover:

- The data security issues identified by the CFPB’s circular
- Key points from past CFPB data security enforcement actions
- Resources to enhance your company’s data security policies and practices
- Proposed data security regulations in New York
- RMAI’s recent comments to California’s proposed data privacy regulations
